Eisenhower Attacks Democratic Congress

Adlai Seeks Education Aid New Teachers, Classrooms In Plans

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson called tonight for a federal aid-to-education program to help provide 50,000 teachers and 100,000 classrooms each year, plus a college education for all "able students."

The Democratic presidential nominee accused the Eisenhower administration of having "utterly failed to develop a comprehensive policy for education."

He said the administration had demonstrated a lack of "strong leadership in the cause of our most valuable resource—our children."

Stevenson said his program envisages spending of from 500 million to one billion dollars more each year for the next 10 years.

He said local communities are having a tough time finding money to pay for schools so future financing will have to come largely from federal sources "through federal taxes, primarily the income tax."

Proposal
He proposed that the U.S. Office of Education might be given cabinet status. He said it now is "a stepchild of our government."

Stevenson said federal aid to schools should be general. He suggested federal grants on a matching basis, possibly following the equalization principle.

"It must be recognized that this program will be costly," Stevenson said. He added:

"When we neglect education, we weaken the whole foundation of free society. And when we neglect education in an age of global conflict, we risk the very safety of our nation and the future of freedom in the world."

Not until the end of his statement did Stevenson mention the controversy over racial integration in schools. He said: "Education is one means by which the individual can realize his own highest capacity. It is essential, therefore, that education be available equally to all, without distinction or discrimination based on race or creed or color or economic condition."

McGlinchey Before Jury

SCRANTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—Former Rep. McGlinchey of Philadelphia appeared again today before a federal grand jury investigating alleged irregularities in connection with the construction of the 34 million dollar Army Signal Corps Depot at nearby Tobyhanna.

McGlinchey, who is a Democratic candidate for election again this November, was accompanied by his attorney, Robert Duffy.

Also reappearing today was Frederick Raft of Hartford, Conn., who held a 3½ million dollar metalwork contract at the depot.

Appeals Sentence

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 1 (AP)—James Dolson, a western Pennsylvania Communist convicted of plotting treason, appealed to the State Superior Court today to free him from a 20-year jail sentence on grounds prosecution of his case should be handled by federal courts.

Parking Lot Remains Unsettled

Bangor Council Reverses Early Vote

BANGOR — Borough Council reversed a previous decision last night and turned down three options to purchase land for the construction of a borough parking lot.

Horace Jennings, chairman of the parking lot committee, reported he had received options on the W. O. Houck property for $6,500; Domenic Rocco property, $1,700; and L. J. Brusch, $8,500, a total of $16,700.

Council rejected the option by a 6-4 vote, upsetting last month's action authorizing construction of the lot.

Jennings, in protest, then offered his resignation as a councilman to President Rex Erdman, who refused to accept it. Erdman, however, appointed Councilman Walt-

Canal Users Form Association

LONDON, Oct. 1 (AP)—The Suez Canal Users Assn., was set up today amid reports of Western Big Three disagreement on whether Egypt may be either persuaded or forced to accept international control.

Fifteen of the 18 nations invited to London joined SCUA at once. Japan, Pakistan and Ethiopia remained on the fence.

Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd of Britain once more refused to rule out force as a final solution.

Lloyd told newsmen just before leaving by plane for New York and the U.N. Security Council debate on Suez:

"We dislike the use of force, but we intend to stand by our rights and the rights of other nations." Lloyd said he was confident the U.N. "will see the justice of our case."

Meeting
Lloyd and Foreign Minister Christian Pineau of France will meet with Secretary of State Dulles ahead of the U.N. debate in an effort to present a united front before the Security Council.

The United States, Britain and France sponsored the formation of SCUA as a stopgap group to press Egypt peacefully to give up sole control of the waterway.

The U.N. Security Council is due to debate the crisis on Friday. Informed diplomats here say the United States favors a softer, more flexible approach to Egypt than Britain and France.

The Americans reportedly would like to get Egypt into talks. The British and French would like to chart courses that would compel the regime of President Nasser to come to acceptable terms.

British and French officials emphasized that Dulles has given them no reason to doubt that the United States wants anything less than they do—a settlement based on some form of international control of Suez.

But differences have come up relating to tactics and methods. While Britain and France are the prime movers of the case for presentation to the Security Council, the United States has cautioned against a resolution condemning the Nasser regime that would tend to alienate Asian opinion and give an opening to Russians to cash in with a certain veto.

The first organizational meeting of SCUA was attended by the envoys of 18 powers, representing 90 per cent of the shipping that passed through Suez. All have supported the idea of an international regime to control the canal.

Investigation
After an investigation, a spokesman for the Hawker-Siddeley group and A. V. Roe, makers of the Vulcan, said parts of the undercarriage were found in a plowed field several hundred yards in front of the runway outside the airport fence.

This, the spokesman said, indicated the aircraft touched down in advance of the concrete runway and the undercarriage was ripped off.

The Hawker spokesman said the pilot was coming in to land on a ground control approach—a very normal procedure in bad weather.

Broadhurst, 50, was acting as copilot to Squadron Leader Howard, 33, on this proving flight of one of the world's mightiest war planes. They suffered only minor shock as parachutes eased them 300 feet to the ground.

The crash was only a few hundred yards in front of a welcoming committee of high government and Royal Air Force brass, airport personnel and a party of Russians at the airport waiting to meet the Bolshoi Ballet.

They gazed horror-struck as the Vulcan—latest and biggest of Britain's A-bomb fleet—suddenly appeared out of the mist, obviously out of control only a few feet above the ground.

C17 Plane Forced Into Landing

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Oct. 1 (AP)—An American C-17 transport plane with 13 men made an emergency landing today on a highway 1½ miles north of Keflavik.

The pilot said that when the plane was a half an hour's flying distance from Keflavik both engines stopped.

Automobile Cuts Off Two Poles

AN OUT of control automobile sheared off two utility poles and a sign on Route 209 at 11:50 last night.

The accident occurred in front of Mount Tom Inn, approximately three miles out of East Stroudsburg.

Limited Details
According to very limited details available at press time today, two cars were involved in the accident.

In attempting to avoid a head-on collision, one of the drivers ran off the road and crashed into the two poles and crushed the sign. The limited information also revealed that the driver of the car crashing into the poles and sign was sent to the Monroe County General Hospital for treatment.

through cesspools, septic tanks or emptied into streams that run under and through the borough. Council voted to move the tax collector's office from the second floor of the Municipal Building to the Bangor Library. Complaints had been received from older people who objected to using the long flight of stairs leading to the tax collector's office. Council decided to renovate the office for use by the borough engineer in planning the sewage plant.

On recommendation of Burgess Pritchard, council agreed to enter into negotiations with the Adult Council of the Youth Center for making facilities of the Beehive Center available to older

Supreme Court Begins Study Of Civil Rights

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—The Supreme Court today began a session that may go far in determining the country's future course in the field of civil rights.

The nine-man court in the weeks and months ahead will tackle a heavy docket of cases studded with problems of racial integration in public schools. It will also consider applications of the Smith Act, the government's primary weapon against the Communist party.

The opening session was, by tradition, held to brief formalities. Next Monday the court will begin hearing arguments on the renewed attacks against the Smith Act. The court will determine later this month what action, if any, it will take in the school segregation cases.

The court's 166th year opened at noon when Chief Justice Earl Warren led his eight black-robed colleagues into the high-ceilinged, marble-columned chamber.

The 26-minute session ended with the admission of 83 attorneys to practice before the court.

For Associate Justice Sherman Minton, this week and next will be his last on the high bench. Minton, 65, is retiring Oct. 15 because of ill health.

Successor
President Eisenhower Saturday named William J. Brennan Jr., of New Jersey to succeed him. Brennan's appointment is subject to approval of the Senate.

Probably no other matter on the court's docket will receive the attention certain to be given the court's actions in school segregation cases.

During the summer recess three appeals were filed from District Court cases stemming from the high court's order last year to end enforced segregation in public schools "with all deliberate speed."

Many more cases on the same issue are expected during the present nine-month term. In its 1955 order, the court said U.S. District Courts, because of their knowledge of local circumstances, could best see to it that school boards made "a prompt and reasonable" start toward ending segregation.

The court's handling of appeals involving District Court decisions will indicate how closely it intends to supervise the carrying out of its 1955 order.

Also scheduled for hearing is an appeal by Steve Nelson, Pittsburgh Communist party leader, and by 14 California Communist leaders. All were convicted of advocating violent overthrow of the government, a criminal offense.

Kefauver Raps Eisenhower

WACO, Tex., Oct. 1 (AP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver said tonight President Eisenhower is "too busy trying to win an election with sunshine and smiles to do anything effective to help small farmers and ranchers hard pressed by drought."

Kefauver opened his second campaign tour with a 100-mile trip from Dallas to Waco through drought-stricken, but normally rich Texas farm country. Long-played-for rain fell in scattered showers throughout the journey.

Third Party Candidate To See Series

SECAUCUS, N. J., Oct. 1 (AP)—Henry Krajewski, former pig farmer and perennial candidate, said today he is going to get to see the opening of the World Series because of his demands for "equal" seating space as American Third party presidential candidate.

Krajewski said President Eisenhower and Adlai Stevenson are to appear during the series and as a result he sent telegrams to Walter F. O'Malley, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, and Dan Topping, president of the Yankees.

Bleacher
"I asked for a bleacher seat," Krajewski said. "Beggars can't be choosy."

"And today I received a telegram from O'Malley telling me to pick up a ticket by noon tomorrow."

Where is Krajewski going to sit? He doesn't know—the telegram didn't say.

Railroads, Truckers Hurl Court Charges

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 1 (AP)—Charges of illegal restraint of trade were hurled back and forth by the trucking and railroad industries today as their damage suits against one another for a combined total of 370 million dollars went to trial in U. S. District Court.

Judge Thomas J. Clary, who is hearing the cases without a jury, heard opening statements by attorneys for both sides.

Pennsylvania truckers are suing a group of eastern railroads for treble damages of 250 million dollars under the Sherman Anti-Trust Act. The railroads are asking 120 million dollars in treble damages from the truckers in a countersuit filed under the same federal law.

Remarks
The trial opened with a statement by Harold E. Kohn, counsel for the Pennsylvania Motor Truck Assn., and 37 trucking firms. The railroads' case then was outlined by Philip Price, Pennsylvania Railroad counsel, speaking on behalf of 30 railroads and the Eastern Railroad Presidents Conference.

"We propose to show," Kohn told Clary, "by the testimony of Carl Boyer and Associates, Inc., first, by documents now admitted to be genuine, and by the testimony of railroad executives, that the defendants—the railroads—embarked on an illegal conspiracy to restrain interstate commerce."

The Boyer firm is a New York public relations agency which has represented the railroads.

Israeli Group Walks Out Of Meeting

JERUSALEM, Oct. 1 (AP)—The Israeli delegation to the Israeli-Jordan Armistice Commission walked out of a meeting of the commission today just as the chairman was about to vote on a resolution proposed by Jordan.

The Israelis took the view the chairman was going to vote for it, thus giving it approval. The resolution alleged an attack at Ramat Rachel Sept. 23 was carried out by a Jordan soldier who had run berserk.

Four Israelis were killed and 16 wounded in the shooting—directed at a party of archaeological excursionists, the Israelis claim.

An Israeli foreign ministry spokesman said the Israeli delegation asked the vote be postponed "in view of the need for further deliberations." This request was refused by the U.N. chairman, Norwegian Col. Christian Moe, the spokesman said.

Votes on the commission number three—the Israeli delegate, the Jordan delegates and the chairman.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 1 (AP)—David E. Watson, 64, a member of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission and also chairman of the Philadelphia Republican Committee, was discharged from Albert Einstein Medical Center today where he underwent surgery for a brain tumor last Sept. 6.

Promises Good Paying Jobs For 70 Million

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 1 (AP)—President Eisenhower ripped into the Democratic-controlled Congress tonight and held out the promise of good-paying jobs for 70 million Americans if he is re-elected.

In a train-plane sortie into Ohio and Kentucky, the President lashed out at his rival, Adlai E. Stevenson. He said the Democratic presidential nominee was an "apparently confused" candidate who wants to return to the "zig-zag, directionless road of trial and error" Eisenhower said the Democrats have pursued in the past.

In contrast, the Republican nominee said if he has four more years in the White House, "I can see an America in which every man can eat his own bread in peace, raise his own family in security and strengthen his own mind and spirit in dignity."

Employment
"This will be an America where there are more than 70 million jobs at good wages," he declared.

Much as former President Harry S. Truman did in 1948, Eisenhower turned on White House heat against Congress. This time it is a Democratic-controlled Congress, instead of 1948's GOP-dominated session, that felt the scorch of presidential condemnation.

Eisenhower said in a speech prepared for a GOP rally in the University of Kentucky's Coliseum that Congress left a lot of "unfinished business" to which, he added, "I shall return" in a second term.

Specifically, he blamed the Democrats for Congress' failure to act on federal school aid, help for local unemployment areas, expansion of minimum wage coverage, occupational therapy assistance and "further help to small business."

Eisenhower was greeted by a large airport crowd and thousands of persons who lined Lexington's streets as he swung into Kentucky after a mid-day speech in the jammed public square at Cleveland, Ohio.

Standing in his open car, Eisenhower gave his characteristic arms-aloft greeting, turned on his famous grin and seemed to be enjoying himself.

He got a surprise when Democratic Gov. A. B. Chandler was the first to greet him when his plane, Columbine III, touched the ground.

As he came off the plane, Eisenhower exclaimed to John Sherman Cooper, former ambassador and now a GOP candidate for the Senate, "hello, John."

Then the President saw Chandler, standing with outstretched hand. "Why, hello, governor," he said. "It's awfully good of you to come out. Thank you for coming out."

Nixon Sticks By Guns

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 1 (AP)—Vice President Nixon reiterated here tonight he had never accused Adlai Stevenson or former President Harry S. Truman of being "traitors" in the general meaning of the word.

But he admitted that he did say that "Mr. Truman and others like him were traitors" to the principles of the Democratic party.

Exploding Shell Kills U. S. Sailor

NICE, France, Oct. 1 (AP)—A shell exploded in the breach of a five-inch gun aboard the U.S. destroyer John R. Pierce today, killing one sailor and wounding 12.

The searing blast caught all members of a detail manning the gun in anti-aircraft exercises. Three of the injured were in grave condition. Five were hurt seriously.

The explosion came at 9:50 a.m. as the Pierce's gunners fired on a towed aerial target about 75 miles south of Villefranche.

No Discussion
Naval officers declined to discuss the accident. They said names were being withheld until relatives are notified.

Doctors from the nearby cruiser Salem were taken by helicopter to the destroyer.

After first aid treatment, the injured were transferred to the cruiser at sea. Then the Salem sailed full speed for Villefranche, base for U.S. warships on the French Riviera coast.

A large crowd, including families of American Navy personnel stationed here, saw the injured men carried ashore to 12 waiting ambulances.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Oct. 1 (AP)—A pontifical high mass of the Roman Catholic Church was sung today for the late President Anastasio Somoza in Managua Cathedral.

But he admitted that he did say that "Mr. Truman and others like him were traitors" to the principles of the Democratic party.

Former Toll Commissioners Move For Dismissal Of Suit

Lawyers Argue Against Type Of Court

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 1 (AP)—Attorneys for four former members of the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission today moved for dismissal of a Federal Court suit seeking recovery of $61,000 paid to the former commissioners.

The bridge commission filed the suit after a two-state probe of its past activities brought charges of lavish spending. The suit charged the former members received salaries when their posts were legally non-salaried.

George Gildea and Joseph Alibon, attorneys for the former commission members, argued that the suit did not belong in Federal Court. U. S. District Judge William F. Smith took the motion under consideration and postponed argument on the commission's motion for summary judgment.

Money

The suit seeks $29,533 from John Elder of Ewing Twp., $11,666 from Leslie Brown of Trenton, $12,875 from C. Stanley Stults of Hightstown and $10,337 from J. Lindsay deValiere, executor of the estate of his late father, Louis T. deValiere of Hopewell, who was a commission member.

Gildea argued that only the First Mechanics National Bank of Trenton could file suit for recovery of the salaries. The bank is trustee for the commission's bondholders.

Gildea said the bank actually paid the salaries. J. Seymour Montgomery, attorney for the commission, denied that the bank paid the salaries. Montgomery said he would be willing to have the bank join the suit as a co-plaintiff.

Smith said that the bank could not sue the former commissioners in Federal Court, since all are residents of New Jersey. He said a federal question would have to be involved in such a case.

Politics Go North

JUNEAU, Alaska, Oct. 1 (AP)—The national political spotlight will focus on the Land of the Northern Light Oct. 9.

The Territory of Alaska, hailed in recent years as a barometer of national political trends, will be electing two U. S. "senators" and a "representative" for the first time in history. They will go to Washington along with the existing nonvoting delegate to Congress—an office which also is at stake in a warm campaign.

Contests

The additional political contests are expected to add interest to the political races that have been watched closely outside the territory because of past election support for the adage: "As Alaska goes, so goes the nation."

The races for the senatorships and the House are, in a way, contests for make-believe seats. The trio are being elected under the so-called Alaska-Tennessee plan. They will be sent to the national capitol to knock on the door and work aggressively for Alaskan statehood.

Tennessee followed the plan in pressing its way to statehood in 1796. Six other states also have done it.

Woodcock Season Next Week

WHEN THE PENNSYLVANIA woodcock season opens next Monday hunters of the "timberdoodle" will make up in enthusiasm what they lack in numbers. The woodcock offers shooting thrills and a difficult target, not only in the thick adobe coverts but also in the upland aspen and crabapple-hawthorn areas.

The season will run 40 days this year, the same as last, but it will open one week later than in 1955. This should give some of the local breeders an opportunity to move out before the shooting starts, assuring a greater return of brood stock next year.

The daily bag limit of four and possession limit of eight remains the same as in 1955. Shooting hours are one-half hour before sunrise to sunset, except on the opening day of small game season, Oct. 27. No hunting will be permitted on that date before 10 a. m., Eastern Daylight Time. The last day of season is Nov. 16. No federal stamp is required to hunt these birds.

'Bog' Group Releases List Of Contributors

WALTER H. SEBRING, assistant Monroe County Superintendent of Schools, last night released a list of those who have contributed to the "Cranberry Bog" project.

The project has as its goal the purchase of the famed Cranberry Bog, between Tannersville and Cherry Lane, and its preservation.

This swamp is only one of the very few like it in the world. It possesses rare plant growth and serves as a reservoir for the area. The locality was once covered by the giant glacier that swept over North America.

The "Cranberry Bog" Association is anxious to obtain enough money to purchase the entire "bog" and preserve it for study by local students and by students from all parts of the world.

SIGN GOES UP—This new 16-foot sign was erected yesterday at the Sherman Theater entrance with the aid of a pneumatic "sky-hook." Lighted by cold cathode tubing, the sign and new porcelain front with lighted attraction board replace marquee that had been used many years. Lighting system is said to brighten entranceway considerably without causing a glare on the eyes. Two illuminated, stainless steel cases remain to be erected before new front is completed.

Stock Market Takes Bad Beating

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP)—The stock market took its worst beating and on the heaviest volume today since President Eisenhower suffered his intestinal illness on June 8.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped $2.50 to $172.20, its lowest point since Jan. 23 when it touched the year's low of $171.60.

The industrial component went down $3.30, the rails $2.90 to a new low and the utilities 70 cents to another of a succession of new lows this component has been making recently.

Volume totaled 2,600,000 shares, largest turnover since 2,630,000 shares were traded June 8. The drop in the AP 60-stock average that day was $3.00.

Estimated Decline

The fall in the AP 60-stock average represented an estimated decline of three billion dollars in the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

Pivotal stocks closed with losses running from fractions to around 4 points. But the worst losses were taken in a late afternoon sell-off when prices of the leaders were pounded down as much as 5 points or so.

The tobacco continued their decline of Friday when a news report predicted the final survey of the American Cancer Society would definitely link cigarettes with lung cancer. The aluminum also were down last week when there was news of big reductions in primary aluminum output.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were lower on volume of 860,000 shares compared with 750,000 on Friday. Among the losers were Consolidated Mining & Smelting, Imperial Oil of Canada, National Petroleum and Glen Alden.

Corporate bonds were lower. U. S. government bonds gained in the over the counter market.

Parking Lot For Bicycles

THE PROBLEM caused by youngsters parking bicycles on the sidewalk in front of the Sherman Theater is about to be solved.

Mrs. Letha Morse, manager, said that through the cooperation of borough and police authorities and Seguire's Dress Shop, a metered parking area will be roped off on Saturday afternoons and bicycle racks will be placed in the street next to the curb for the convenience of children who ride their bicycles to the movies.

Viewing the Screens

BEGINNING TODAY, one of America's favorite cowboys, Gene Autry, gallops onto screens at 5:30 on ch. 5, with his series of Western adventures. The show will be on every week, Monday through Friday.

A pirate captain goes on a secret mission for the Queen of England in "Condemned to Glory" on the "Conflict" series at 7:30 p. m. on ch. 6 and 7. This is a story of high adventure on the Spanish Main and intrigue in the Elizabethan court.

On the Phil Silvers Show "You'll Never Get Rich" at 8 p. m. on ch. 2 and 10. Sergeant Bilko, with his platoon, is sent to college to teach students motor pool techniques, but before he can reach a grease gun, Bilko gets himself tangled in a 1000-1 football game bet.

"The Brothers", a new situation comedy, debuts at 8:30 on ch. 2 and 10. The Box Brothers are portrayed as very normal men, and their reactions to comedy situations are played in such a way that the show comes through as pure comedy rather than outright clowning.

Another new program to be seen for the first time tonight at 9 on ch. 2 and 10 is the "Herb Shriner Show". Jackie Gleason and Red Skelton will be on hand to wish the popular Hoosier humorist good luck.

Red Skelton returns to the air for the Fall season tonight at 9:30 on ch. 2 and 10, and will be seen in his famed characterization of Cauliflower McPugg, with Rocky Marciano, retired heavyweight boxing champion, as his guest.

"The Boy Nobody Wanted", the true story of a neglected boy branded a killer for accidentally causing the death of a playmate, and the warm-hearted understanding he receives from a social worker and an elderly farm couple, will be the presentation on "Cavalcade Theater" at 9:30 on ch. 6 and 7.

Internal Revenue Men Do Have Fun

By JOY MILLER
NEW YORK, Sept. 30 (AP)—What amuses an Internal Revenue man?

One in Little Rock, Ark., was checking tax returns last week. Suddenly he chuckled merrily. After the question "marital status," a taxpayer had penned: "good."

Marital bliss was in the mind of a Hartford, Conn., judge when he cut off eight months from a year sentence for theft. A woman told him the convicted man had always been a good provider and wonderful to the baby. "I need him at home," she pleaded. Later a probation officer discovered the woman wasn't his wife, that he had never had one. Now he's serving the full sentence.

Honest
Somewhat more honest was an Oxnard, Calif., man who was sentenced to 30 days in jail for driving without a license. He was told to wait in the anteroom. He did — interminably. Finally he went home and came back the next day. When he asked for escort to jail his emotions no doubt were mixed when he learned no one had even missed him.

There was nothing mixed about the emotions of an 8-year-old Juliet, Ill., girl visiting the Central Park Zoo in New York City on a vacation trip. It was love at first sight. She immediately wrote a letter enclosing four $1 bills. The letter began: "Dear Zoo: Please give me a baby elephant that was just born. Please, 25¢ or 45¢ because he is a baby yet."

Well, the zoo returned her money with polite regrets. The little girl, at last report, was under-redded. "If that's not enough," she said, "I'll shovel sidewalks this winter."

Kremlin Sends Kids To School

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY
AP Foreign News Analyst

THE Kremlin's latest gimmick in its unending campaign to make Russians into good Communists is to take the children away from their parents and put them into boarding schools.

This will permit the Communist party to destroy the influence of parents on children. It will also permit Communists to get at the youngsters on a much more intensive scale than it could when the children lived with their families. It will free young mothers for work on farms or in factories.

All these are consequences which the Communist Party of the Soviet Union ardently desires. The first boarding schools have just been started—at the "suggestion" of Communist boss Nikita Khrushchev, made last February at the 20th Congress of the Soviet Communist Party. Much is being made of the occasion. The Soviet propaganda apparatus is pushing the boarding school program, persuading parents their children won't be mistreated at them, demonstrating that life in them is clean and healthy, that the children will be surrounded with love—and above all that the boarding school students will get a superior education which will give them an advantage over home-raised children in later life.

Powerful Bait
This is a powerful bait. In effect the Soviet press saying "Give us your child and we will see to it that he has a better life than the rest."

When Khrushchev first mentioned the boarding school idea he was careful not to indicate the scope of the plan. He described it as "voluntary" and compared the Soviet boarding schools to schools for children of the aristocracy in Tsarist times—a comparison designed to appeal to the vanity of parents.

Now, however, the scope of the boarding school plan begins to emerge. It is intended to become, as the Soviet press explains, the basic form of Soviet education. In other words it will be the ordinary and eventually probably a compulsory form of education.

Integrity Of Baseball Reaffirmed; May Best Team Win Subway Series

America is a nation that takes its athletic endeavors seriously. Professional sports of all types thrive as a result.

Watching the progress of our favorite teams is a happy diversion from the multitude of heavy problems that occupy most of our waking moments. Competitive sports that bring out the most in talent, aggressiveness, sportsmanship and the like attract the largest followings.

We insist that our athletes play the game "on the level" and resent any intrusion of racketeers or gamblers bent on making a quick clean-up. There have been cases over the years where athletes have yielded to the temptation of easy money, but the number is small in the over-all picture.

If there were any question about major league baseball being above reproach, we believe it was dispelled last week as three National League teams battled right down to the end of the season before the championship was decided in Brooklyn's favor.

It wasn't so much what the top teams did as it was the manner in which the clubs that had been eliminated from contention refused to "play dead" for the big three—Brooklyn, Milwaukee and Cincinnati.

One of the St. Louis Cardinals summed up what was happening when he commented, after playing a major role in defeating the Braves, that it was tough to have to beat the team he favored to win the pennant showdown. The Pirates, Cubs, Phillies and Giants likewise gave their best when the chips were down.

All this is a tribute to the great American pastime of baseball. The sport will survive—and prosper—as long as its players and owners make sure it remains on its present high plane. We need baseball and other sports to help us develop a balanced viewpoint in life. Long may they live!

And now to get on with the World Series. Both the New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers are teams of Championship class. May the best team win!

Social Security System Faces Threat From Burden Of Program For Disabled

It is always difficult to criticize measures which, at least on the surface, seem of a humanitarian nature. That is true of the bill—hurriedly passed in the final hours of the last Congress—expanding the social security system. Among other things, the bill provides for cash payments to workers at the age of 50 if they become permanently and totally disabled.

That, in the words of Senator Byrd, establishes "... an entirely new concept, never contemplated when the (social security) program was inaugurated." The implications inherent in the step can be judged from a statement made by Dr. Elmer Hess, past president of the American Medical Association: "This is an impossible social and medical situation." Marjorie Shearon, formerly a consultant to the late Senator Taft, feels that the unprecedented disability provision could "... lead directly and rather quickly to the complete nationalization or socialization of medicine."

The problems—financial and otherwise—that now arise are massive. Social security taxes are due to jump by $850 million next year and, if the disability provision is retained, it is inevitable that they will soar thereafter. Ultimate costs are incalculable now.

Senator Byrd—who was chairman of a Senate committee which held extensive hearings on the new bill, and recommended against it by an 11 to 4 vote—also points out that the disability provision "... may well involve the question of the physical fitness of the 70 million persons who are currently under social security, and this number will increase as the years go by." Moreover, he thinks that the amendment providing for payments to the totally disabled at the age of 50 is only the entering wedge, and that once the principle is established, broadening is inevitable. To quote him again, "During my 24 years in the Senate I have seen many an aid program start at the size of a mouse and rapidly grow to the proportions of an elephant."

Everyone is sympathetic with the plight of the disabled. But this new legislative approach to the problem seems unsound on every count—and could conceivably lead to a collapse of the social security system.

Lack Of Genuine Discussion, Ardent Debate Marks 1956 Election Campaign To Date

A Very Dull Campaign

The 1956 Election is less than six weeks away as this is being written. The campaign shows some motion and there have been some speeches. But the whole effort, of both parties, is astonishingly dull. Maybe the reformers have succeeded in achieving what they like to call a "clean election," that is, one in which there is such a deference to the other side that the whole business is meaningless. There is no genuine discussion, no ardent debate, no intense excitement. It is very dull. The best effort of the Democrats thus far is to accuse Dr. Milton Eisenhower of favoring Peron, when as a matter of fact, Peron got the American taxpayers' money, more than $100,000,000, during the prior Administration.

Here in New York State there is supposed to be a contest for the United States Senatorship between Robert Wagner, Democrat, and Jacob Javits who is running on the Republican ticket. It is more like an "Apres vous, Gaston," politeness. Nothing happens. Senator Irving Ives has tried to make a martyr of Javits who does not look like a martyr of any kind and Wagner seems to go about his business of being mayor of New York City as though there were no campaign at all. Everything is very peaceful and quiet and nobody discusses anything very seriously or with fire in his eye. It is very dull. The greatest effort of the Republicans thus far has been to say that Mayor Wagner's successor, should he be elected, Abe Stark, while a very decent person, is not trained to be a mayor, he running a haberdashery and clothing store. So did Harry Truman at one time. Also Javits says that he knows more about foreign affairs than Wagner does. But nobody boasts about knowing anything about the United States.

Of course, something could happen to brighten the campaign, a slip of the tongue might lead to a bit of self-exposure on the part of a candidate, such as the proposal for a four-day work week which could outpace American production even in American markets unless accompanied by an isolationist high tariff. From the general attitude, it would look as though there were nothing to argue about, no vast differences of opinion, no varieties of public opinion. The Republican campaign is centered on "I like Ike"; the Democratic campaign on the hole in Stevenson's shoe.

The real issue, of course, is the Negro question. Both candidates are hedging and are asking everybody to obey the law as interpreted by the Supreme Court. But what has actually happened in the South is more serious, more fundamental than the Warren opinion on segregation in the schools. What has happened in the South is that an issue which both white and Negro communal leaders believed that they were handling well, has become so explosive as a result of the Supreme Court decision that it reflects, in many aspects, similar anti-white movements in other parts of the world. And the white population has organized movements for States Rights that have actually put a Third Party on the ballot in some states with T. Coleman Andrews, the former Eisenhower tax collector who hates the income tax, as its candidate. The Third Party will not, of course, send Andrews to the White House but it gives evidence of being a rallying post for those who are weary of the South being the tail to a Northern kite.

On the other hand, the enormous migration of Southern Negroes to the large industrial cities of the North, cities which have not usually been Democratic but have become so, forces the Democratic politicians to view their fortunes with strabismic eyes. In fact, they are so cross-eyed that what they see in the North frightens them more than what they see in the South and both frighten them plenty.

Politicians dislike even to mention the Negro question, but that is what faces this country where about 10 percent of the population thinks in terms of equal rights which the Negroes contend are unavailable to them because of their color. And in the South, there are those who insist that Negroes should not have equal social rights no matter what economic advantages they enjoy. The social fear is intermarriage.

Questions of this nature cannot be buried in the sterile sands of campaign verbiage.

Hello Central, Give Me Europe!

"It is now possible to phone Europe through the new $42,000,000 undersea cable." — News Item.

"Hello. Get me Europe, please." "Europe is busy just now." "You're telling me!" "What do you want in Europe?" "Who's available? I'm not too fussy."

"You've got to call for a specific person or firm." "Don't make it difficult, central. After all the telephone company brought this whole thing up and advised it extensively. I'm entitled to try it out without any quibbling. I'll talk with anybody you can get in Europe, except Naaser."

"I just can't ring up Europe at random."

"It might be fun that way. Europeans at random are especially interesting."

"Do you know anybody by name over there?"

"I must have a name, eh? Very well, get me Marilyn Monroe."

"Have you her number?"

"I wouldn't say that, Central."

"Is she in London?"

"If you don't think so ask Sir Laurence Olivier."

"Who shall I say is calling?"

"(The line goes dead suddenly for quite some time.)"

"Hello! Central, I was cut off."

"You were calling Jake's Dell-cattessen in New London, Connecticut?"

"No. My call was to London, England."

"Oh, something went wrong with the electronic amplifiers on the bottom of the Atlantic. I remember now. You're the man who was trying to get the Folies Bergere in Paris aren't you?"

"No, but that's not a bad idea."

"(There is further trouble with the call.)"

"Central! Central! What happened to my call?"

"I'm getting that Galveston, Texas number for you, sir."

"I never said a word about Galveston. I wanted London or Paris."

"Dunston & Harris?"

"No! Something's the matter. We don't seem to hear each other clearly."

"Are you speaking distinctly into the transmitter?"

"Yes, but I'm so far ahead of you, I'm using my London accent."

ENTRANCE EXAMINATION

Fairly Spoken By MARGARET LATROBE

Estimate A Community By Its Women's Club

What kind of town is yours? Progressive, alert today, thinking toward tomorrow? Or plodding memory's path backward to the "good old days"? Your town is it hospitable to change, or mean-spirited about "these bright boys coming in and taking over, building houses where we don't want houses, factories where we don't want factories, highways where the footpath used to be?"

There are many ways to tell what kind of town you live in. One of the best is, what kind of Women's Club have you?

Ah yes—the jokes. The rattle of tea cups, furriest of girlish conversation from those no longer girls, the ecstatic bouts with Robert's "Rules of Order," and subcommittees dedicated to research on lemon meringues vs. chocolate mousse for the Christmas bazaar. "Have you heard the one about the club lady and H. G. Wells? About the garden club member and ... ?" On and on, but spare me the humor.

A town with high incidence of rattling teacups (first Monday every month) is safer, cleaner, infinitely more beautiful than towns where no ladies listen to minutes of the last meeting. A town with a first rate Women's Club is more apt to have its own symphony orchestra, Broadway plays, first-rate board of education, honest politicians and dandy shopping centers than the frousy sister city where no Monday tea cups disturb the peaceful somnolence.

A town with a bristly active Women's Club is certain to have lower percentages of its youth about the law than one where tea cups are silent. Its children are likely to be better cared for, better understood and appreciated—even counting mamma's time out for committee meetings—than those from towns without women's organized club work.

Why? Simple enough. Here is a city whose women think beyond themselves. Act beyond their front sidewalk borders. Believe in contributing their best efforts to a larger pattern than that of "me, mine, my own." These are women who are mature human beings, whether they be 20 or 80. They can work with others, think with others, act with others—and God have mercy on the mayor if he doesn't heed those rattling teacups.

There are other ways of evaluating the kind of community you live in, but it's almost a sure bet—if its Women's Club is sharp, active, interested, it's a good town.

A slick animal trader sold a farmer a none-too-robust mule, with the assurance, "This here mule will give you no trouble whatever. He'll respond immediately to a couple of kind words."

The farmer tried every kind word he knew on the mule, but the results were nil. Disillusioned, he marched it back to the trader and said, "You lied to me about this critter, mister. He just won't do nothing."

The trader picked up a big stick, and proceeded to clobber the stuffing out of the mule. "Wait a minute," protested the farmer, "I thought you told me just to use kind words."

"Sure I did," agreed the trader, "but first you got to win his attention."

Robert S. Allen Reports

Prominent Foes Of Tito Face Soviet Purge Trials

Washington, Oct. 1: A number of high Russian officials are headed for the chopping block.

They will be tried in spectacular proceedings, very reminiscent of the deadly purge trials of the infamous Stalin era. The purpose will be the same, but with an ironic twist.

The new purge trials are to make the late despot's crimes official.

This secret Kremlin plan was broadly hinted by Communist Party boss Nikita Khrushchev during his "social" visit to Yugoslavia.

The Soviet Czar indicated that certain prominent foes of Marshal Tito are on the purge trial list.

Also that Stalin's personal secretary is included. He vanished shortly after the tyrant's demise. This secretary was reputed to be a henchman of Secret Police Chief Beria, who was mysteriously executed by Khrushchev and his allies.

Several months ago Intelligence reported that Stalin's secretary had made a voluminous "confession" of his late boss' multitudinous crimes. This gory account will doubtless feature the forthcoming trials, and thus give official aura to the denunciations of the late dictator.

In the course of Khrushchev's free-handed vodka gulping in Yugoslavia he also—

Disparaged Egyptian fighting spirit and strength, and slightly characterized Nasser as a "bluffer who is way over his head and won't last long."

Khrushchev made it clear Russia has no intention of becoming embroiled in war over Suez, but at the same time proposes to play a decisive role in that explosive controversy.

Complained about the "endless demands" of Red China for machinery, weapons and other equipment and supplies. Khrushchev's comments about Peking regime and ruler were unmistakably critical. From their tenor it would appear the Soviet masters are not happy with their Chinese pals.

Bushy off American Communist leaders as "rubbish," and implied they will be kicked out soon.

Indicated a new "Summit Conference" will be sought after the Presidential election here. "Next time," Khrushchev told Tito, "we will get down to concrete business ourselves and not let subordinates botch up things." Tito viewed this remark as a slap at former Foreign Minister Molotov, who was shelved earlier this year.

Khrushchev gave the Yugoslavs a rosy account of the growth of Russian foreign trade and economic influence.

We are expanding all over the world," the Kremlin czar boasted. "People are coming to us and asking for trade agreements and credits. In a few years we will exceed the Americans. They are losing ground everywhere, while we are steadily going ahead."

Russia's Mig-15 jet fighter is available to Yugoslavia, Khrushchev assured Tito, if the U. S.

doesn't give him the promised Sabrejets, that outflung the Migs in Korea.

Recently President Eisenhower halted shipments of F-86s to Yugoslavia. Prior to that they were being turned over to Tito at the rate of around fifteen a month.

On the hustings—President Eisenhower is going out of his way to praise Harold Stassen. In the President's campaign stories so far he has lauded Stassen in talks with local leaders.

Senator Kefauver is still getting nowhere in persuading Democratic campaign chiefs to give jobs to his key lieutenants. Stevenson's aides are making it evident they have not forgotten nor forgiven the Kefauverites' painful primary tactics, and are balking at letting them have an important role in the election battle. The Tennessee still does not have a campaign budget of his own, although his expenses are being paid.

National Chairman Leonard Hall is urging GOP leaders to intensify their efforts in behalf of Congressional candidates, particularly for the Senate. Hall is having a rush survey made of critical spots in these races. He plans to use this report to concentrate extra campaign measures in these states.

Senator Theodore Green, R., ranking Democratic member of the Foreign Relations Committee, wants a probe of Republican tactics in the recent Maine election. Green has conferred on that with Senator Albert Gore (D., Tenn.), chairman of the Election Investigating Committee. Green is turning over to Gore material charging Robert Humphrey, national Republican Campaign Director, with "instigating" the use of a "phony" picture against Governor Muskie, who was re-elected by a record majority.

Green is urging that Humphrey be summoned for public grilling on this and other charges.

There is a reason for those major speeches Stevenson is making in suburbs. It's a carefully thought-out strategy, that was suggested by former National Chairman Sieve Mitchell. He argued that if the Democrats hope to win such key states as New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio, Massachusetts, California, it is necessary to effect a major switch in votes in the suburban communities. Stevenson tested this theory in his speeches in Falls Church, Va., and Silver Spring, Md., and decided Mitchell was right. As a result, Stevenson will do a lot of talking in the suburbs of Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts in his campaigning there.

The September issue of Coronet Magazine featured a story about Pete Otwayler, who used to be a reporter for The Daily Record.

Three Area Men Sentenced To Prison

Each Given Two To Four Year Term

THREE Monroe County men yesterday were sentenced to two-to-four years in Eastern Penitentiary, and fined $500 each, after being found guilty of assault charges involving a 15-year-old White Haven girl.

President Judge Fred W. Davis handed down the stiff sentences to James Butz, Tannersville; Harrison Moyer Jr., Pocono Lake, and Edward Smith, East Stroudsburg.

The prison terms and fines were imposed on charges of assault with intent to ravish. The court suspended sentence against the trio on charges of simple assault and battery.

All three were found guilty of both charges by a Monroe County jury last week. The jury failed to convict the men of statutory rape, with which they were also charged.

Before passing sentence, Judge Davis noted that all three defendants were "young men of maturity," who had been found guilty of "running around with a mere child."

"This doesn't present a very appealing picture," the judge said.

UJA Pledges Hit $2,645 In Area

PLEDGES totaling $2,645 to the United Jewish Appeal were announced last night at a meeting of the fund-raising sub-committee at the home of Joseph Kushner, 115 Broad St., Stroudsburg.

The pledges were received at the recent UJA campaign dinner meeting at David's Motel, Marshalls Creek, and announced last night by Sam Block, regional chairman.

Sixty-six persons attended the dinner. Principal speaker was Miss Gitti Zand, New York social worker who is well known in the U.S. and Israel for her work on behalf of displaced Jews in Europe and Africa.

Description She described in vivid language the work being done with UJA funds in Israel in bringing new hope and spirit to homeless Jews across the face of the earth. The guests alternately cried and laughed as they listened to the heart-breaking and humorous anecdotes Miss Zand related from her own intimate knowledge of the work.

Entertainment was furnished by Karen Roth, of Stroudsburg RD, who sang a number of Hebrew, French and English songs to the accompaniment of Wallace Hornbrook at the piano.

Chairman Block announced that committees are being appointed to visit those who could not attend the dinner and to spark the campaign in the summer camps this coming season.

Archers Fail To Kill Deer On First Day

POCONO Mountains archery enthusiasts joined others throughout Pennsylvania yesterday in hunting antlered deer with the bow and arrow.

The sixth special season for bowsmen opened yesterday and will continue to Oct. 19. The hours for hunting deer with the bow are 7 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Eastern Daylight Time.

District Game Protector John Doehling said last night that "about 10 percent more" archers were out in Monroe County yesterday, compared to last year.

Meanwhile, Francis (Jake) Silvers, president of the Pocono Archery Club, estimated that better than half of the club's 45 members were out in the field yesterday.

But at nightfall, no deer had been reported killed, although the club has offered a trophy to the member who bags the first buck this season.

Two Hit Silvers said he and three others hunted in an area off Route 309 near the Monroe-Pike line. He said three bucks were hit—two of them "badly."

The men plan to return to the area again today in hopes of spotting the wounded deer.

Meanwhile, other Nimrod reported that they spotted deer. However, they either shot and missed, or the animals sighted were does.

Pennsylvania's first separate bow and arrow season was in 1951. In 1951 and each succeeding year until this one a two-week season was enjoyed, and only buck deer with the required "rack" were legal game.

This year, again, the bowsmen may take only bucks, the same as described as legal game for the later season. But different from the first five special seasons in this state the 1956 bow and arrow deer season runs for almost three weeks.

In 1951 special archery licenses were bought by 5542 persons. Each year the number has increased until in 1955 the sale of these licenses reached more than 17,000. In that season 119 legal deer were reported taken through the use of the bow and arrow in Pennsylvania. The number of archers licensed to hunt bucks in the special season this fall will very possibly aggregate 20,000.

The Game Law lists these restrictions on equipment to be used in the special archery season: "It shall be unlawful to hunt for, kill or attempt to kill any deer . . . with any weapon other than a bow and arrow, or with any bow other than a long bow controlled without the aid of mechanical means, or with any arrow with an explosive head or shaft." This excludes the use of the cross bow, and it is unlawful to carry any kind of a gun while hunting deer with bow and arrow during the special season. Archers who kill a buck during this season are required by law to fill out the big game tag supplied with the hunting license and mail it to the Game Commission, Harrisburg, within five days following the close of the bow and arrow season. The successful archer may not kill another deer for the remainder of the calendar year.

Compared to gun hunters as a group the archers do not bag many deer. But they enjoy many thrills in stalking their quarry in the cool of the fall season, whether or not they score. Not the least of the benefits of these Indian-like hunts lies in the nerve tonic derived from relaxation amidst the beauties of autumn in the wooded hills of Pennsylvania.

State Convention Hicks announced the State Convention in 1957 will be held in Scranton.

Alex. Bensinger, Stroudsburg, was also present and spoke briefly. A few members of the club expect to assist the women of the Ladies Auxiliary during the week-long Teen-agers dances on Friday nights. The Ladies Auxiliary served dinner for the members.

Next meeting will be Oct. 9, when the West End Lions Club will be guests of the local organization.

Christiansen Services FUNERAL SERVICES for Homer Christiansen, 77, of Stroudsburg, RD 1, were held at 8:30 Sunday night at the Warner Funeral Home with Rev. Donald B. Schaefer officiating. Burial was in the Cypress Hills Cemetery, Brooklyn, N.Y., yesterday afternoon.

County Now Has Two Guard Units

MONROE COUNTY now has two National Guard units.

Company F formally came into being last night when it underwent Federal inspection and recognition during rites in the old Wayne Gym at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College. The inspection was made by Maj. John Fastia Sr., Army advisor for the Scranton Army Reserve group.

The new group will be commanded by Second Lt. Richard L. Rugg. The initial transfer involved 19 men and one officer, including 15 men from Company G, which will continue to function under the leadership of Second Lt. Nelson P. Silfee.

Company G will meet Mondays at the gym, while Company F will meet Tuesday evenings.

The new unit is hoping to build up to its full strength of 165 men, and six officers.

Company spokesmen said there are openings for promotions in the new unit. They also pointed out that a man can serve out his obligation for military service without active duty by signing up in the National Guard between the ages of 17 and 18½.

YOU WON'T BELIEVE IT... until you see it with your own eyes. The equipment you see above is a Winkler Low-Pressure oil burner. It was in full operation when this picture was taken in the H. C. Archibald Company showroom, 406 Main St. (Distortion in the background of the picture was caused by heat rising from the burner flame toward an exhaust fan out of camera range). The amazing thing about what is happening here concerns what Art Henning is doing: operating the Winkler burner on dirty crank case drainings taken from an automobile. Mr. Henning, who is the owner-manager of the Archibald Company, then proceeded to prove his statement that the Winkler is the "most versatile and economic burner I've ever seen." Next, he poured crude oil into the burner; it continued to operate efficiently without any change whatsoever. Then he even poured water into the oil—more than enough to put most burners out—but the flame never faltered an instant. If all these facts are hard to believe, Mr. Henning invites you to visit the Archibald Company showroom and see for yourself.

1957 Fords Due Tomorrow

"Lower and longer." These are just two of the many changes you'll notice about the new 1957 Fords which will be unveiled here Wednesday morning, according to Jess Haynes, president of Haynes Motors, N. Ninth St. Ford dealer.

"From the road up," Mr. Haynes said, "the 1957 Fords are a complete departure from previous models."

Though new models will be lower, he explained that interior headroom is as great as in the '56 models. Reason: the car's chassis and floor have been entirely re-designed for a lower center of gravity.

The '57 models will include 19 body styles and a new "Fairlane 500" series, of which the four-door Victoria is a member.

Ford is the first to introduce their new models this year.

Inspection Invited By Local Dealer

"MATCH this oil burner, if you can." This is the challenge Arthur Henning, owner-manager of the H. C. Archibald Co., 406 Main St., makes on behalf of the new Winkler "LP" oil burner.

The Archibald company was recently appointed as local dealer for Winkler heating and air conditioning. Winkler heating and air conditioning equipment is manufactured by the Stewart-Warner Corp.

To prove his claims that the Winkler low-pressure burner will outperform conventional oil burners, Mr. Henning has set up a burner in the company showroom. You can test its operating efficiency personally.

To show how dependable and economical the Winkler burner operates, Mr. Henning runs the burner on unrefined black crude oil dirty automotive crank case drippings, and even pours water in the oil.

In all cases no adjustments are made to the burner and you'll see for yourself that its operating efficiency is altered in no way.

Even when crude oil is burned, there are no soot deposits. The Winkler is so efficient it consumes every drop and converts the poorest fuel oil into useable heat.

Here are the reasons for the Winkler low-pressure burner's efficiency and economy of operation:

The Winkler eliminates excessive service cost caused by nozzle clogging and filter and strainer stoppage. The Winkler does not clog! It uses no filters and the coarse strainer does not stop up.

In a conventional high-pressure burner the nozzle opening is extremely small. The Winkler nozzle is approximately 30 times larger.

The Winkler burner also releases only the amount of heat the heating plant can absorb and transfer efficiently. Waste heat (along with your heating costs) don't go up the chimney.

Mr. Henning also claims the Winkler burner will pay for itself in oil savings. He invites you to visit the Archibald showroom and see it in actual operation.

Displaying New TV Sets

IF YOU have a television set which is over three years old and you're getting what you feel is "wonderful reception," you have a surprise coming.

"Wait until you see the picture quality and tuning ease of the new '57 RCA and Emerson sets," William Queenan says. Mr. Queenan, whose shop is located at 750 Main St., is an authorized RCA and Emerson dealer. He also maintains an up-to-date service department.

Right now you can see the new 1957 models on display in his showroom.

There's a whole season of excellent televisioning ahead, Mr. Queenan points out, "so why not see it at its best on a new RCA or Emerson."

Miss Durland Is Bride Of Fred E. Ley

Pocoeno Lake -- Miss Eleanor J. Durland, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Durland of Pocoeno Lake, was married Saturday afternoon, September 29, to Fred E. Ley, son of Mrs. Elwood Adams, Pocoeno Pines, and the late Albert Ley.

Rev. P. H. Loftus performed the double ring ceremony in the First Baptist Church in East Stroudsburg. The altar was decorated with bouquets of white mums. Wedding music was furnished by Miss Claire Rundle, of Forty-Fort, cousin of the bride.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, W. Russell Durland, and was attired in a floor-length princess style gown of white satin fashioned with a portrait neckline and had long pointed sleeves. The gown was fashioned and made by the bride's sister, Mrs. William Elias. Her fingertip veil was of nylon tulle attached to a Juliet cap embroidered with seed pearls. She carried white mums arranged on a small velvet fan.

Miss Lorraine E. Berger of Easton, niece of the bride, was maid-of-honor. Miss Janet R. Berger, of Easton, Miss Jane Ann Sillies, Miss Judy Sillies of Nutley, New Jersey, also nieces of the bride were bridesmaids.

The attendants were dressed in shades of fall colors. Each attendant carried white mums with a centerpiece of green. Miss Betty Lou Mosier was flower girl and carried white mums with a pink centerpiece. Miss Mosier's dress was of blue taffeta with lace trim.

Thomas Sillies was the best man. The ushers were Kenneth Shupp Jr., of White Haven, and George Shields of Wilkes-Barre.

The bride is an alumna of Tohyanna Township High School and Churchman's Business College, and is now employed as secretary-bookkeeper at Pocoeno Lake Preserve.

Mrs. Ley attended the Tohyanna Township Schools and served for some time in the U. S. Air Force. He is now employed with John Muller, builder and contractor, in Stroudsburg. The bride and the bridegroom are members of the Bible Fellowship Church in East Stroudsburg.

A reception for 125 guests was held in the social rooms of the church. The bridal table was decorated with white mums with a three-tier wedding cake with miniature bride and groom on top.

Following the reception, the newlyweds left for a motor trip through the New England States and Canada. The bride chose a brown faille dress with brown accessories, over which was worn a beige coat for travel.

The couple will reside in their newly-furnished apartment in Pocoeno Pines.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

Wherever there's smoke there's probably a cigarette! Certainly the importance of this rather useless but increasingly popular commodity is evidenced all around -- in radio and TV advertising, and in the hundreds of ashtrays in glass, metal, and pottery available in our own Wyckoff gift department.

In my travels yesterday I discovered a stunning new type of upright cigarette holder for coffee table or desk priced at 7.50 and ideally suited to holiday giving. The sides are of golden sequins clustered beneath a clear finish, and these swing down, at a twist of the top button, to display four packs of cigarettes. Another less expensive cigarette container is humidistyle, appropriately named "The Smoke Stack." Of metal finished in black, it has a brass top, and stands high on two brass ash trays. Its price is 2.25 and the humidistyle top is lined with cork to keep tobacco fresh.

Hannah Shupp also pointed out an ash tray which is much in demand right now. It is of bronze with copper and very deep. The top comes off readily for emptying, and the price is 1.00. The big advantage of this practical, rather than glamorous, creation is the fact that winds may blow as they will; the ashes will not scatter.

Any of these would be ideal gifts for a man... except perhaps the first discussed cigarette holder, which is rather more feminine and "family minded."

Sometimes it's a greater nuisance to prepare for going away than it is to relinquish your plans and stay home. Before Shorty Widmer and I could get off to the Hudson River excursion last week, it was necessary to arrange Monday's radio program -- and so a tape recording was made Saturday afternoon. Everything was in order -- or so it seemed, until late Sunday when the telephone rang.

"Mrs. Maloney?" a masculine voice inquired. "This is Eve Strubbe from WVPO. I've just listened to your tape, and something is wrong -- I guess it was done on the wrong side, and it sounds as though you're burping throughout. Maybe you'd better come down and make another."

"I have a better idea," I said sadly. "Just put in a few Bissol commercials here and there, and let it go."

But I did make another tape, of course. After all, there's such a thing as loyalty to your job... pride in your work... and the fact that we don't sell Bissol at Wyckoff's.

The motion picture industry has made us more aware of war and peace than even the Suez controversy--thanks, of course, to the new film based on Leo Tolstoy's great classic. I notice that our book department is selling a picture story of "War and Peace," lavishly illustrated with stills from the movie, and the price is only 1.98... Adorable foot-high chipmunks with saucy faces, and gaily colored turkeys are on sale in our stationery department, reminding us that Halloween parties and Thanksgiving reunions are just around the corner. Florence Fredmore is also stocking skeletons and other appropriate miscellany for entertaining. Denim rubber aprons, for little painters of "off to school" age are available in our children's department. The boys' are of solid color with contrasting binding; the girls' are feminized with bow and "pocket-cuff" of bright gingham, and they're 1.25 and 1.35 respectively.

Composer Is Guest Speaker At Music Club Convention

David Guion, one of the foremost American composers, was the speaker at the luncheon which marked the meeting of the Philadelphia Regional Conference of the Pennsylvania Federation of Music Clubs held yesterday at the Zion Ev. and Reformed Church, Stroudsburg.

One of his own compositions, "Prayer" was sung by Hazel Heffner Beecham, mezzo-soprano, before his talk before the 70 some delegates from music clubs and schools of music from the region who were guests of the Music Study Club of Stroudsburg.

Another highlight was the talk by Dr. Harold W. Gilbert, headmaster of St. Peter's Choir School, Philadelphia, who gave practical advice on how to achieve harmony, both musical and

THE RECORD
By Bob Clark

KARL Weingartner and Al Adelmann, two former Stroudsburg High grid stars, are continuing their fine football exploits at Lafayette College in Easton in no uncertain terms.

Weingartner, Lafayette quarterback, has scored one touchdown in each of the Maroon's two winning efforts this season and has played great ball on defense in helping Coach Steve Hofus maintain a unbeaten record, thus far, this season.

Adelmann, Lafayette's regular end, has been a tower of strength both on offense and defense for the Leopards.

Two ex-East Stroudsburg High athletes broke into the lineup when Susquehanna University topped Ursinus in football over the weekend.

The pair of former Cavaliers were John Anthony, a junior, and Danny Marvin, a freshman. Both boys are ends on the Whitey Keil-coached eleven.

The National Rifle Association announced that Lt. Walter Strunk, of Swiftwater, has been selected chief instructor of the newly organized Cadet Squadron, 1462 Junior Rifle Club, Civil Air Patrol, Stroudsburg.

Membership in the club, which is restricted to youths under 19 years of age, has increased. Thomas Voller, president, other officers are William Bolch, vice president; Jeffrey Weichel, executive officer; and Michael Miller, secretary-treasurer.

Aim of the club, which is chartered by the National Rifle Association of America, is to teach youngsters the fundamentals of good marksmanship and safe firearms handling on the target range and in the hunting fields.

David Price, who with his wife celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Saturday, could easily be called Bangor's No. 1 sports booster as a memo from The Daily Record's Bangor Correspondent Arnon Williams reveals.

Williams writes: "Dave", as he is known to all of his many friends, always has been one of the town's leading sportsmen. A keen follower of all athletic activity both in the State and nationally, he established a wide circle of acquaintances and always has been a ready reference when forgotten details of past events are required.

As a baseball man he enjoyed the unique experience of graduating from bleacher fan to team manager. Back in 1936 when the Sterling A. A. was organized at the Kayser he was called upon to direct the team. During the club's three consecutive seasons in the Bi-State League one championship as well as a playoff title were collected. When not on top the team finished among the first four.

Dave's interest in the game first came to light in 1905 when he served as ticket man under Charles Sleeman, box office head, at the upper gate at the old ball field on N. Main St. Bangor captured the Northampton County title that year.

Years later, when Garfield (Bunce) Jones managed a local entry in the old Bi-State League, the team received support from the Republican Club. Dave was named by the club as a director and continued in this capacity until the circuit disbanded.

Although his health prevents him from attending local contests now, his enthusiasm has not diminished. Television and radio and his daily newspaper keep him on the scene.

BOWLING TIDBITS—Top scores were hung up in four leagues this week as the keggers began to find the strike zone. In the Commercial "B" loop the Eagles team composed of Louis Carletta, Ellsworth Brodt, Fred Wilder, Jim Harmon Jr. and Tom Sommers bowled a 1017 singletwon with scores of 193, 167, 203, 212 and 242 respectively.

Montroe Classic circuit action saw two team efforts over 1000. Community Bar hit 1025 on Russ Bergman's 217, Ellsworth Brodt's 255, Pete Budieker's 203, Chet Luck's 178 and Bob Heller's 172. Bill Altieri's quiet hammer out a 1039 as Dick Anderson bagged a 217; Floyd Starnier, 188; Louis Lee, 186; Jim Harmon Jr., 236; and Tom Sommers, 232.

Six bowlers went over 600 in the match. They were Andrews, 646; Harmon Jr., 626; Sommers, 636; Russ Bergman, 639; Brodt, 615; and Russ Dennis Jr., 643.

Martin To Add Extra Punch To ESSTC Short Punt Attack

COACH EUGENE MARTIN isn't going to let a couple of victories keep his East Stroudsburg State Teachers College eleven from adding new ideas this year.

The head coach of the Warriors yesterday announced that new innovations will be inserted in the ESSTC short punt attack when the Normal Hillers host Shippensburg STC in their home inaugural Saturday afternoon.

The unbeaten Warriors, winners over Millersville and Ithaca College, prepped up on their "secret weapons" yesterday in a drill on the local college's gridiron.

Martin, pleased with the 12-0 victory at Ithaca, feels the win at the New York town could have been made easier if the Warriors passing attack had shown any kind of potency.

"We went 0-for-10 up there and that shows the overhead offense was nil to say the least," the veteran mentor said.

Plans Extra Work

He plans extra work in passing this week with emphasis on both tossing and catching. "It's hard to say whether the passer is throwing too far or whether the receivers are not going out far enough. We'll find out in workouts this week what is missing," he concluded.

ESSTC came out of the Ithaca clash with two injuries—neither serious—as Co-Captain John Andrews came up with a gashed knee and Jim Martino suffered an elbow injury. However, Andrews, first string tackle, and Martino, a guard, are expected to be ready for duty when the Warriors square off against Shippensburg.

Have 1-1 Record

Shippensburg will invade Eastburg with a 1-1 record, including a victory over Shepard, W. Va. College Saturday.

The Red Raiders operate from the "T" and generally shoot up the famed Oklahoma 5-4-2 or 5-4-1 defense at all foes. While the Shippensburg protective alignment has proved successful gain against "T" eleven, it could be just what the doctor ordered for Martin's short punt or basically single and double wing overland movement.

Busso Gains Split Verdict

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP)—Johnny Busso, one of the best young prospects in the lightweight division, racked up his seventh straight victory by gaining a split decision over able Tommy Salem of Cleveland in a telecast 10-rounder at St. Nicholas Arena tonight. Busso, an 8-3 favorite outweighed his rival 139 to 136½.

It was a lively scrap all the way with Busso earning the nod on his heavier punching.

Referee Art Mercante had Busso a solid winner, 6-3-1. Judge Mike Davidowitch made Busso a winner by a shade, calling it even in rounds 5-5, with Busso the victor on a 6-5 point edge. Judge Nick Gamboli gave his vote to Salem, 5-4-1. The AP card had Busso in front 6-3-1.

The fete was scheduled for Wednesday night at the Stroudsburg YMCA.

The reason given for the postponement was that the trophies which were to be given to the winning teams and players were still enroute to Stroudsburg.

Auxiliary aides said that the new date for the banquet will be announced later.

Wescott's 2 TDs Gives Navy Win

DON WESCOTT's two touchdowns led Navy to a 14-7 victory over Penn in an East Stroudsburg Midget Football League game at the Junior high field yesterday.

Mickey Strunk and Ed Hughes tallied the extra points for Navy. Bob Smith went over for Penn's six-pointer and also added the seventh point on a plunge.

Navy outgained Penn on the ground 70 to 45 yards and racked up 8 first downs to the losers five.

Cardinals Drop Allentown Farm

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Oct. 1 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals announced today they would not operate their Allentown team, said the parent Eastern League.

Don Dix, general manager of the Allentown team, said the parent Cardinals had decided to drop Allentown because of "a lack of fan support." He said it was hoped local interests would buy the club and operate it in 1957.

Yanks Carry Decided Edge In Batting Average

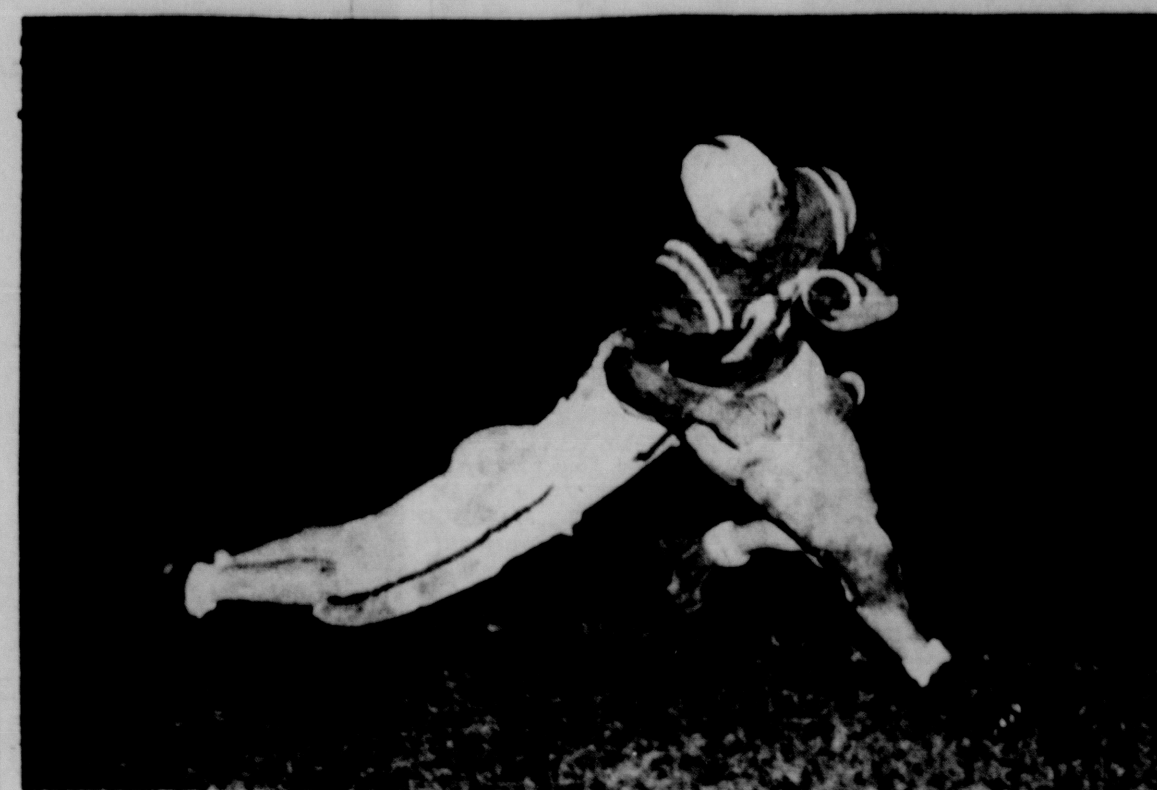

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers nearly match the New York Yankees in home-run power, but when it comes to batting average, the Yankees will carry a decided edge over the National League champions into the World Series.

Mickey Mantle, with 52, and Yogi Berra, with 30, paced the American League club to a record 190 home runs this year. Brooklyn had 179, five of them coming in the final day's "clutch" game.

A comparison of the clubs, position by position, gives the Yankees a 5-3 advantage in batting. Here's how the players who figure to see the most series' action stack up:

FIRST BASE — Bill Skowron, Yankees, and Gil Hodges, Dodgers, about even, Skowron hit .308 at Hodges' .265, but Hodges hit more home runs and fields better.

SECOND BASE — Junior Gil-

Eastburg JVs Dump Bangor For First Win

EAST STROUDSBURG High's junior varsity grid team broke into the win column for the first time yesterday when they topped Bangor's underlings 19-0 at Memorial Stadium.

Larry Smith sent the Little Cavaliers into a lead they never relinquished when he bucked five yards for a touchdown in the opening period.

Ron Ray made it 12-0 in the second when he galloped 30 yards from scrimmage. John Kolcum added the extra point via placement to give Eastburg a 13-0 half-time edge.

Eastburg put the game on ice in the fourth period when Sal Pappalardo sprinted 60 yards around right end for the final six-pointer.

LL Banquet Is Postponed

OFFICIALS of the Stroudsburg Little League Auxiliary announced last night that the circuit's banquet, honoring Little League players, has been postponed until a later date.

The fete was scheduled for Wednesday night at the Stroudsburg YMCA.

The reason given for the postponement was that the trophies which were to be given to the winning teams and players were still enroute to Stroudsburg.

Robinson Plans To Play For Brooks In 1957 Series

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP)—Jackie Robinson answered reports about his possible retirement after the World Series by saying he expected to play in the 1957 World Series too.

"I think we will win again next year for two reasons," said the 38-year-old infielder. "First of all, we are going to have a lot of young guys who are going to be in there and be of tremendous help. They learned a lot watching us old guys battle this year."

"Then the old guys didn't do so badly either, did they? I guess all of us showed enough to indicate we had at least one more year left. We are going to have a helluva team next year."

The "Broadway Managers" already have named Clem Labine to pitch the opening game against the Yankees.

In giving out his odds for the Dodgers-Yankees series, the bookmaker said "the Yankees are 6-5 favorites in the opener with Whitey Ford pitching against Clem Labine." The Broadway Managers figure with Sal Maglie a little stiff and Don Newcombe not looking so good the last couple of games, Labine gets the start.

A Don Newcombe-Mickey Mantle feud is building up to add zest to the subway series.

Mantle, Triple Crown battling champion, recently said "if Newcombe thinks he can throw his fast ball past me, he's got another think coming."

Told of this, big Newk said he's got Mantle's weakness—which is something most American League pitchers couldn't discover.

"Mantle has a weakness for a fast ball," said Newcombe. "I know where it is and he knows I know. If I get it where I want to, he's not going to hit it."

Ebbets Field today still looked like the site of a New Year's Eve party the day after. Peanut bags, newspapers, programs and all sorts of trash littered the stands, just like the jubilant customers left it when the Dodgers clinched the flag on Sunday.

It looked like everyone still was celebrating the victory.

Dodgers' Alston Undecided As Maglie Turns Up Sick

BROOKLYN, Oct. 1 (AP)—Sal (The Magnificent) Maglie had the miseries today, leaving wide open the question of who will be Brooklyn's pitcher against the New York Yankees and lefthander Whitey Ford in Wednesday's World Series opener at Ebbets Field.

The Dodgers, hungry for some relaxation after the frantic finish to the National League pennant race, had the day off. But when Maglie showed up with the rest to pick up his ticket allotment, he admitted to an upset stomach and reported his shoulder "a bit stiff."

That confirmed Manager Walt Alston's worry over the 39-year-old righthander, who proved the Big Guy in the stretch run. The Dodger skipper, given little chance to enjoy his second consecutive pennant, has doubted whether Sal could get the job done after only three days rest.

Logically, the choice, said Alston, "but he may need more rest. I know he pitched that no-hitter (last Tuesday) with only three days' rest, but how can you be sure he can come back again?"

Sal, who has been coming back all season, figured the stiffness might work out of his shoulder in a pregame warmup, and Alston followed the lead.

"I won't know who starts for us until just before game time," he said. "And if it isn't Maglie, it might be Carl Erskine, or Roger Craig, or maybe even Clem Labine. I just don't know."

While the hectic closing to the National League race left Alston with a weary pitching staff, Yankee Manager Casey Stengel had no such worries, having clinched the American League flag two weeks ago.

Go With Best
"It's Ford, all right," said Casey as his Yanks worked out at the stadium today. "Yeah, yeah, I know. They say those guys (the Dodgers) have a picnic with left-handers over there in Brooklyn's handball yard. But I can't afford to wait 'til we get over here, so I gotta go with my best and my best is Ford."

Ford, 28, hasn't worked since last Wednesday, when he lost his shot for a 20th victory at Baltimore. That gives him a full week's rest going into the opening game, scheduled for 1 p.m., EDT in predicted cool and clear weather.

Whitey, however, hasn't won yet in Ebbets Field, although his 3-1 World Series record includes two of the Yankees' three victories over the Brooks last year. In his only start at Ebbets, Whitey lasted just one inning, giving three hits and three runs in the fourth game of the 1955 classic.

Yanks 6-5
Still, the book makers have junked the idea that Brooklyn's right-handed hitting power will ruin Ford again as he works in the shadow of the nearby left-field stands in Ebbets Field. They've made the Yankees a 6-5 choice in the opener, picking Labine for Alston. If it's Ford against Maglie, however, it's 6-5 and "pick 'em."

The Yankees are 7½-5 favorites to win the series, but it's 10-1 they won't make it a four-game sweep. It's 10-1 the Dodgers, playing the first two games at home, won't sweep.

Feller Named President Of Player Group

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP)—Major league player representatives today formalized the recently organized Major League Baseball Players Assn. by electing officers.

Bob Feller of the Cleveland Indians, was named president with Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals, vice-president, and Jerry Coleman of the New York Yankees, secretary.

Feller, Musial and Coleman automatically became members of the five-man executive committee. The two other members are Eddie Yost of Washington, and Ted Kluszewski of Cincinnati.

County Doctors To Attend Meeting

MONROE COUNTY physicians have been named to take an active part in the 106th annual meeting of The Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania at Atlantic City, Oct. 21 to 26. This will be the first time the more than a century old Society has held its annual session outside the Commonwealth.

Drs. Harold B. Flager, secretary of the Monroe County Medical Society and Charles S. Flager, both of Stroudsburg, will serve as delegates to the meeting and participate in the deliberations of the House of Delegates, the policy-making body of the State Society.

Rev. Robert Campbell

Rev. Campbell To Speak At Youth Week

POCONO LAKE — Rev. Robert Campbell, of Allentown, will be the special speaker at the annual Pilgrim Holiness Youth Week starting Wednesday and continuing each night through Sunday.

Rev. Campbell is the son of Rev. John Campbell, who served the church as pastor from 1942 to 1946. He will be assisted by a male trio from Stroudsburg composed of Messrs. Everett, Goucher and Wise.

Activities
The week's activities will be climaxed Sunday morning in the Sunday school session when Rally Day will be observed. Awards are to be given. Eastern Pilgrim College students will conduct a program.

The Sunday school will pause to the memory of a former superintendent, Rolland Hayes. A lecture has been given to the church by the Hayes family and will be dedicated at the service, according to Rev. John A. Gangaware, pastor.

Heart Power May Soon Be Measured

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—The U. S. Public Health Service reported today it may soon be possible to calculate the power output of the human heart.

Such information, it said, would be of great value to doctors in determining the physical abilities and limitations of heart patients. The heart-power measurements would also be a valuable guide in judging the risks of stressful experiences such as surgical operations.

Artery
The announcement described the way three of its scientists have devised a means of measuring in animals the velocity with which blood is ejected at a given instant from the heart into the aorta.

The aorta is the great artery which arches from the top of the heart to supply blood to the entire body.

The advance will soon be applied to humans, the announcement said.

The new technique measures blood velocity in the aorta itself. It is known as "a catheter tip method for the measurement of instantaneous aortic blood velocity."

Developed in recent months by Alexander J. Mallos, Alfred G. Casper and Dr. Donald L. Fry at the National Heart Institute in nearby Bethesda, Md., it is described in detail in the September issue of the technical journal, Circulation Research.

The velocity measurements are obtained by threading slender, flexible plastic tubes through a small cut in a leg artery. The catheter is double, consisting of two hollow tubes fused side by side. Openings in the side are placed so that one of the tubes measures blood pressure about two inches downstream from the other.

Difference
The difference in pressure between the two openings is converted by a special "differential pressure gauge" to variations in electrical current which move the arm of a pen and ink recorder to produce a permanent record of the pressure difference.

The researchers have deduced a mathematical formula for calculating the instantaneous aortic blood velocity from this pressure difference.

The output of the heart, it is said, can be calculated by multiplying the blood velocity by the cross-sectional area of the part of the aorta in which the measurements are taken.

The service said the researchers have verified the method experimentally in dogs and in models designed to simulate the pulsating flow of blood from the heart.

Rev. Mangum Explains Value Of Lessons

REV. JOHN B. Mangum, associate editor for the United Lutheran Parish and Church School Board was the guest speaker at the Rally and Promotion Day exercises in St. John's Lutheran Church on Sunday morning. He pointed out to the students the importance and value of the lessons learned as dealing with the true Christian life and also as a means of developing a better church membership. He challenged them to be faithful and rally each Lord's Day for the services in God's House.

Announcement was made that all records for attendance at a session of the church school was established when it was reported that 317 were in attendance. The special offering towards the salary of the native pastor at Uppuluru, India, exceeded the amount required for the next year.

Promotion
The children promoted from the nursery department were presented with a New Testament and those promoted from the Primary to the main school were each presented with a Bible.

The Festival of the Harvest was duly celebrated at the service at 11 a.m. when the pastor, Rev. Dr. P. N. Wohlson, brought the message on the theme "Gathered Fruits." The chancel was beautifully decorated by ladies from the Women's Missionary Society. More than 200 containers of canned fruits and vegetables, more than three bushels of potatoes, fruits and vegetables of all kinds also adorned the chancel. These gifts will be delivered to the Lutheran Orphans Home in Philadelphia on Monday.

On Sunday night the annual Youth service was conducted by members of the Luther League.
